

Disease-first public transcriptomics places Chinese medicine-related compound mapping into a rectal B-lineage context.

Curcumin-associated genes define experimentally testable B-cell-context hypotheses.